

Email 2 Analysis Report :

The screenshot shows a Gmail inbox with the following details:

- Compose button.
- Inbox folder selected, with 4 messages.
- Starred, Snoozed, Sent, Drafts, All Mail, Purchases, and More buttons.
- Labels section with a plus sign.
- Search mail bar.
- Subject: ⚠️ Congratulations ! You Won ₹5,00,000 ⚠️
- To: to me
- Date: 18:41 (10 minutes ago)
- From: Prize Team
- Message Content:

Dear Customer,

You have won a lucky draw prize of ₹5,00,000.

To claim your reward, send your bank details immediately.

Regards,
Prize Team
- Action Buttons: Reply, Forward, and a smiley face icon.

1. Subject Line :

⚠️ Congratulations ! You Won ₹5,00,000 ⚠️

⚠️ This subject creates excitement and curiosity.

Scammers use prize offers to attract victims.

2. Sender Email : lottery@international-prize.net

Domain alert.comprize.net is not official

It does not belong to any official government or lottery organization.

3. Greeting :

Dear Customer

Generic greeting i.e , Refers to da friendly wave

Real financial organizations use your registered name.

4. Content Analysis :

The email asks the user to send bank details to claim a prize.

Legitimate lotteries do NOT ask for bank details through email.

5. Psychological Tactics Used :

- Greed
- Excitement
- Financial reward lure

6. Risk Classification : !!PHISHING – HIGH RISK !!

7. Simple Explanation :

This email is a lottery scam. It tries to trick users into sharing banking details by promising a large reward. It is not from a legitimate source.